
AFI DATA PORTAL (ADP) SHARING YOUR COUNTRIES' FINANCIAL INCLUSION STORIES THROUGH DATA

The ADP is a unique and integrated global database on financial inclusion policies, regulations, and outcomes, that is built by policymakers for the benefits of policymakers and the public.

AT A GLANCE

WHAT IS AFI DATA PORTAL (ADP)?

The ADP is a unique integrated global database of financial inclusion policies, regulations, and outcomes, built by policymakers for policymakers and the public.

Launched in 2016, today the ADP houses financial inclusion data from over 60 countries in the AFI network, sourced and reported directly by AFI members.

For policymakers and regulators, the ADP is not only a valuable way to showcase national achievements in financial inclusion, but also an effective and efficient tool for benchmarking and analyzing progress on policy implementation.

As a repository of knowledge on the policy and regulatory status of financial inclusion initiatives, the ADP provides peer learning opportunities for national policymakers and regulators. As an open platform, it enhances AFI's contribution to global knowledge on financial inclusion.

The ADP is open to anyone, free of charge.

64

MAYA DECLARATION
COMMITMENTS WITH OVER 580 TARGETS

68

AFI COUNTRY
POLICY PROFILES

35

COUNTRIES REPORTED DATA ON FINANCIAL INCLUSION INDICATORS

WHICH DATASETS ARE IN THE ADP?

The ADP currently features three datasets:

- > Maya Declaration Commitments - The world's first measurable set of commitments to financial inclusion. This platform enables AFI member institutions to publicly pledge concrete financial inclusion targets and regularly report on their progress. Through the ADP, users can view all Maya Declaration commitments and related progress reports. AFI members can also announce new Maya Declaration targets and submit progress reports on existing ones.
- > AFI Country Policy Profiles - The first repository of knowledge on the legal and regulatory status of financial inclusion in AFI member countries. The CPPs allow users to examine the regulatory frameworks of each country and identify thematic, regional and global trends.
- > Financial Inclusion Indicators - These include AFI indicators (such as the AFI Core Set of Financial Inclusion Indicators) and country-specific indicators. AFI members can also add their own indicators, report on existing ones and view the indicator data of other countries.

WHAT CAN I DO ON THE ADP?

Any user can explore and export data from the ADP. Some additional features were recently introduced, such as:

- > Multilingual capability - Now available in English, French and Spanish!
- > Enhanced member control - AFI members can share their Maya Declaration progress reports, data on financial inclusion indicators and update their Country Policy Profile (CPP).
- > More analytical capability - A new timeline feature exclusively for users from AFI member institutions that maps their financial inclusion milestones.
- > Improved usability and functionality - The ADP is now optimized for mobile and tablet devices, allowing users to view, export and share data¹ conveniently from anywhere.
- > User manual - An ADP user manual is now available to guide you through the portal.

KEY FACTS

47%
OF USERS ARE POLICYMAKERS AND REGULATORS FROM THE AFI NETWORK

53%
OF USERS ARE MEMBERS OF THE PUBLIC, INCLUDING INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS,
DONOR INSTITUTIONS,
PRIVATE SECTOR,
ACADEMIA AND OTHERS

1,000
NEARLY 1,000
REGISTERED USERS ON THE ADP

MULTILINGUAL CAPABILITY
AVAILABLE IN ENGLISH, FRENCH AND SPANISH

53%
AFI MEMBER INSTITUTIONS
NOMINATED DATA FOCAL POINTS TO SHARE DATA ON THE ADP

IMPROVED USABILITY AVAILABLE FOR MOBILE PHONES AND TABLETS

¹ Only nominated individuals from AFI member institutions are authorized to share data on the ADP

HOW CAN I ACCESS THE ADP?

The ADP is open to the public, free of charge!

Please visit the ADP at www.afi-dataportal.org to sign up and receive your login details.

If you are a staff member of an AFI member institution, please use your institution e-mail address. The ADP will recognize that you belong to an institution in the AFI network and you will enjoy additional features!

AFI is offering select partners the chance to share their financial inclusion data on the ADP. If your organization is interested, please contact our team below.

TO LEARN MORE, PLEASE CONTACT:

AFI Data Portal Team
progress@afi-global.org